Documentation Data Banks

INTRODUCTION TO VOLUME III

Foreign Trade

With the rapid increase in available official trade data for China, two problems have emerged. First, data from different sources do not match; in particular statistics from partner countries and official data are different. Second, measuring the real domestic equivalents of international trade flows becomes possible, although still difficult. The time series in this Volume III of the Documentation Data Banks address both of these problems.

The former sections of these foreign trade data banks compare official and partner-country trade statistics at the 2-digit SITC level, compute correction factors for each of the 2-digit categories, and then apply these factors to partner country data for which there is no official information. The result is a set of time series at the 2-digit SITC level compatible with official data currently being released.

The latter sections of these foreign trade documentation data banks calculate foreign trade flows in constant 1980 yuan, requiring the application of individual shadow exchange rates to each export and import flow. The result, however, is the ability to integrate the foreign trade flows into the other final demand flows for the economy as a whole.

For details of the calculations, see the methodological notes appended to each section.

Documentation for data bank on official total exports and total imports (FK/TTEC1.3GD):

Steps involved in obtaining the data bank:

(A) Spreadsheet FQ/TEEC2.3GB

Official Total Exports figures are obtained from various sources:

1. State Statistical Bureau 1981 Yearbook, p.357 (English version), 1981, 1982 FROM SSBYB83, P. 405.
2. Official Ministry of Foreign Trade (MOFT) customs statistics are derived from various communiques and Xinhua announcements. The data are converted from current yuan to current dollars using the official average exchange rate.
3. International Monetary Fund: International Financial Statistics. The data are converted at the official average exchange rate.
4. World Bank's China: Socialist Economic Development, Annex A, p.137, from Bank of China (BOC) sources.
5. CIA partner country statistics: from various CIA China: International Trade Statistical Supplements.
6. IMF memorandum on China's Balance of Payments.

(B) Spreadsheet FQ/TMEC2.3GB

Official Total Import figures CIF are obtained from some of the same sources as official total export figures: from the SSB, MOFT, IMF's IFS and the World Bank, as described above.

Official Total Import figures FOB are derived from the CIF figures described above, by dividing the CIF figures by a factor of 1.083. Import data from the CIA and the IMF memorandum are FOB.

(C) Spreadsheet FH/PCTT1.3GB

Price indices for Total Exports and Total Imports are calculated using reaggregated totals of exports and imports in both constant and current terms.

The reaggregated total of exports in current dollars is obtained from file FH/TEEC3.3G6 (see DK/TEEC1.3GC for detailed documentation).

The reaggregated total of exports in constant dollars is obtained from file FH/TEEC5.3G7 (see DK/TEEC2.3GC for detailed documentation).

The reaggregated total of imports in current dollars is obtained from file FH/TMEC1.3G6 (see DK/TMEC1.3GC for detailed documentation).

The reaggregated total of imports in constant dollars is obtained from FH/TMEC5.3G8 (see DK/TMEC2.3GD for detailed documentation).

(D) Spreadsheet FH/TTEC1.3GB

Official series of Total Exports and Total Imports are derived from spreadsheets FQ/TEEC2.3GB and FQ/TMEC2.3GB as follows:

To obtain composite series of Total Exports: took SSB data for 1975-77, IMF memorandum data for 1978-80, and MOFT data for 1981-82.

To obtain composite series of Total Imports: took SSB data for 1975-77, IMF memorandum data for 1978-80, and MOFT data for 1981-82.

These series are deflated using price indices obtained in (C) above to get constant 1980 dollar series.

Documentation for Data Bank of Total Exports and Exports by commodity groups in current dollars (FK/TEEC1.3GC)

Steps involved in obtaining this data bank:

(A) Spreadsheet FQ/TEEC1.4GI

1975-81 data on Chinese Value Exports disaggregated according to SITC numbers (from CIA: China International Trade Annual Statistical Supplements, February 1982, March 1983, and March 1984) were shown to be reaggregated into 9 categories.

(B) Spreadsheets FH/TEEC3.3G6, FH/TEEC4.3G6, and FH/TE3A.3G6:

The disaggregated export data from (A) above are first reaggregated to get value of total exports (column L of FH/TEEC3.3G6). Then the 9 commodity shares of total exports are calculated based on this reaggregated total (both spreadsheets).

(C) Spreadsheets FH/TEEC7.3GB, FH/TEEC8.3GB and FH/TE9A.3GB:

The commodity shares of total exports calculated in (B) above are multiplied with the official Chinese total export value series (see spreadsheet FK/TEEC1.3GC) to obtain commodity export series based on the official Chinese series.

Documentation of Data Bank of Total Exports and Exports by Commodity Groups in constant 1980 yuan (FK/TEEC2.3GC)

Steps involved in building the data bank:

(A). Spreadsheet FQ/PCTE1.3G6

Export Price Indices - sources:

1975-80: from United Nations Monthly Bulletin of Statistics and WEFA.

These price indices were aggregated in TROLL using routine &C.AFSUM.

1981: price indices were from Commodity Trade and Price Trends (World Bank), 1982-83. The prices of the following commodities were used as proxies to derive 1980-81 price changes for the 11 categories:

Grains - Thai Rice, p.57

OtherFoodcrops - Average for All Tea, p.55

Other Raw Food Products - Fish meal, p.85

Energy - Weighted Average OPEC oil, p.109

Machinery and Equipment - Petroleum and the Index of Petroleum prices to Imported Manufactures, p.47

Processed Foods - Soybean Oil, p.83

Processed Other Agricultural Product - plywood, p.101

Consumer Manufactures - same as for Machinery and Equipment

Agricultural Raw Materials - Wool, p.95

Agricultural Chemicals - Potassium Chloride, p.135

Other Heavy Industry - Metals & Minerals, p.47

1982: price indexes from Wharton EFA World Model data banks

(B). Spreadsheets FH/TE1A.4G1 and FH/TE2A.4G1:

Because of the re-aggregation of Other Food Products and Other food crops into the new single category Other Raw Food Products, and the reaggregation of Processed Other Raw Materials and Other Heavy Industry into a new Other Heavy Industry, the relevant price indexes must also be averaged with the appropriate weights. These two tables accomplish this task.

(C). Spreadsheets FH/TEEC1.3G6 and FH/TEFC2.3G6 and FH/TE2A.3G6:

Commodity Export series in current value terms (from spreadsheet FK/TFEC1.3GC) are converted into constant 1980 dollar series using the price indices series in (A) above

(D). Spreadsheets FH/TEFCG.3G7, FH/TEEC6.3G7 and FH/TF6A.3G7:

The total of constant 1980 dollar series of commodity exports obtained in (C) above are used to calculate commodity exports as shares of total exports (in constant 1980 dollars).

(E) Spreadsheets FH/TEECA.3GB, FH/TEECB.3GB and FH/TEEC.3GB:

Commodity export shares obtained in (D) above are multiplied into the official Chinese total export series (in constant dollars) (see spreadsheet FK/TFEC1.3GC and documentation) to get the official series of commodity exports in constant dollars.

(F) Spreadsheets FH/OFER.4G1 and FH/OVER.4G1:

Weighted averages of shadow exchange rates are calculated for the re-aggregated series for Other Raw Food Products and Other Heavy Industry. For a brief discussion of shadow exchange rates, see (G) below.

(G) Spreadsheets FH/TEECD.3GB and FH/TEECE.3GB:

Commodity exports in constant dollars obtained in (E) above are converted into constant yuan using various 1980 shadow exchange rates.

The official exchange rate was not used because domestic prices of traded goods have no systematic relationship with the international prices at which they are bought or sold. Hence, to obtain the real (1980 yuan-priced) equivalent of the value of traded goods, different conversion factors (shadow exchange rates) must be used for each commodity category.

Wharton has estimated shadow exchange rates for each of the different commodity groups by dividing available Chinese prices by the international unit value of certain chosen representative commodities:

Grains - the exchange rate of rice as the representative. The Chinese price is from Agricultural Yearbook 1981, p.352. The international price is from Commodity Trade and Price Trends (CTPT), 1982-83, World Bank, p.57.

Other Foodcrops - the exchange rate of tea as the representative. The Chinese price is from SSB 1981 Yearbook, p.428 while the international price is from CTPT, p.55.

Other Raw Food Products - the exchange rate of beef as the representative. The Chinese price is from Bert Keidel, Wengniute notes (Inner Mongolia), and the international price is from CTPT, p.67.

Energy - the average exchange rate of petroleum and coal. The Chinese prices for these are found in World Bank China: Socialist Economic Development, Annex E, p.10. The international prices are from CTPT, p.107 (coal) and p.109 (petroleum).

Machinery and Equipment - the average exchange rate of cement and paperboard. The Chinese price of each of these 2 commodities is derived from value output/physical output (data for cement from SSB 1981 Yearbook, p.213, 228 respectively, and data on paper & paperboard from p.213, 225 respectively). The international prices are derived from export value/export quantity.

Processed Foods - edible vegetable oils as the representative. The Chinese price is the retail price of edible vegetable oils from SSB 1981 Yearbook while the international price is export value/export quantity. This choice of proxy is hardly ideal, however, comparable machinery prices are currently unavailable.

Processed Other Agricultural Products - Logging as the representative. The Chinese price is obtained by dividing the 1981 value output (in 1980 prices) with the 1981 physical output of timber (source: SSB 1981 Yearbook, p.213 and p.236 respectively). The international price is from Commodity Trade and Price Trends (CTPT) 1982-83, World Bank, p. 99.

Consumer Manufactures - the average exchange rate for bicycle, flashlights, television sets, clocks, leather shoes and cotton cloth as the representative. The Chinese price of each of these is from the SSB 1981 Yearbook, p.426-427, while the international prices were calculated from export value/export quantity. Agricultural Raw Materials - the average exchange rate for wool, jute, cotton and tobacco as the representative. The Chinese prices of these commodities are found in SSB 1981 Yearbook, p.428 while the international prices are found in CTPT, p.95 (wool), p.91 (jute), p.87 (cotton) and p.105 (tobacco).

Agricultural Chemicals - exchange rate of chemical fertilizers as representative. The Chinese price is from SSB 1981 Yearbook, p.427 while the international price is derived from export value/export quantity.

Other Heavy Industry - the average exchange rate of cement and paper and paperboard. The Chinese prices are derived from value output/physical output (for cement, data from SSB 1981 Yearbook, p.213, 228 respectively, and for paper & paperboard, data from p.213,225). The international prices of these are derived from export value/export quantity for each of the two commodities.

Documentation for Data Bank of Total Imports and Imports by commodity groups in current dollars (FK/TMEC1.3GC)

Steps involved in obtaining this data bank:

A. Spreadsheet FQ/TMEC1.3G5:

1975-81 data on Chinese Value Imports disaggregated according to SITC numbers (from CIA: China International Trade Annual Statistical Supplements, February 1982 and March 1983, p.54-55) were shown as reaggregated into 11 categories (using TROLL routine &C.AFSUM).

B. Spreadsheets FH/TMEC1.3G7 and FH/TMEC2.3G7:

The disaggregated import data are first reaggregated to get value of total imports (column N of FH/TMEC1.3G7). Then the 11 commodity shares of total imports are calculated based on this reaggregated total (both spreadsheets).

C. Spreadsheets FH/TMEC7.3GB, FH/TMEC8.3GB and FH/TMEC9.3GB:

The commodity shares of total imports calculated in (B) above are multiplied with the official Chinese total import value series (see spreadsheet FK/TTEC1.3GC) to obtain commodity imports series based on the official Chinese series.

Documentation of Data Bank of Total Imports and Imports by Commodity Groups in constant 1980 yuan (FK/TMEC2.3GC).

Steps involved in building the data bank:

(A). Spreadsheet FQ/PCTM1.3G6

Import Price Indices - sources:

1965-80: from United Nations Monthly Bulletin of Statistics and Wharton EFA data banks. These price indices were aggregated in TROLL using routine AC.AFSUM.

1981: price indices are from Commodity Trade and Price Trends (World Bank), 1982-83. The prices of the following commodities were used as proxies to derive 1980-81 price changes for the 11 categories.

Grains - U.S. Wheat p. 63.

Other Foodcrops - World Raw Sugar, p. 65.

Other Raw Food Products - no change (Wharton Estimate)

Energy - Coal, p. 107.

Machinery and Equipment - Petroleum and the Index of Petroleum Prices to Imported Manufactures, p. 47.

Processed Foods - Soybean Oil, p. 83

Processed Other Agricultural Products - Plywood, p. 101

Consumer Manufactures - same as for Machinery and Equipment

Agricultural Raw Materials - cotton, p. 87

Agricultural Chemicals - Urea, p. 139

Other heavy Industry - German Steel, p. 129

(B). Spreadsheets FH/TMEC3.3G7, FH/TMEC4.3G7, FH/TM3A.3G7 and FH/TMECG.3G7:

Commodity Import series in current value terms (from spreadsheets FQ/TMEC1.3G5 in data bank FK/TMEC1.3GC) are converted into constant 1980 dollar series using the price indices series in (A) above.

(C). Spreadsheets FG/TMEC5.3G8, FH/TM5A.3G8, and FH/TMEC6.3G8:

The constant 1980 dollar series of commodity imports obtained in (B) above are re-aggregated to get a series of total value imports in constant 1980 dollars (see spreadsheet FH/TMEC5.3G8). Commodity imports as shares of total imports (in constant 1980 dollars) are then calculated.

(D). Spreadsheets FH/TMECA.3GB, FH/TMECB.3GB and FH/TMECC.3GB:

Commodity import shares obtained in (C) above are multiplied into the official Chinese total import series (in constant dollars; see spreadsheet FK/TTEC1.3GC and the accompanying documentation) to get official series of commodity imports in constant dollars.

(E). Spreadsheets FH/TMECD.3GC and FH/TMECE.3GC:

Commodity imports in constant dollars obtained in (D) above are converted into constant yuan using various 1980 exchange rates (see row 54).

The official exchange rate is not used because domestic prices of traded goods have no systematic relationship with the international prices at which they are bought or sold. Hence, to obtain the real (1980 yuan-priced) equivalent of the value of traded goods, different conversion factors (shadow exchange rates) must be used for each commodity category.

Wharton has estimated exchange rates for each of the different commodity groups by dividing available Chinese prices by the international unit value of certain chosen representative commodities. These are the same as those used for exports. For details, see the detailed documentation for FK/TEEC2.3GC, above.
